Requirements of the Department of Pharmacognosy and Botany towards students entering laboratory practice in Pharmacognosy (1) – Microscopic and macroscopic analysis of herbal drugs
Winter Term 2020/2021

STILL: We would very much more prefer if you joined with your UNIVERSITY e-mail address (at UNIBA.SK), as joining with your private addresses just gives you a GUEST status, not a student status.

The teaching process in the winter semester of the 2020/2021 academic year takes place with in-face* and distance (MS Teams) methods both until the end of the winter semester.

Requirements:
– students are obliged to wear a white lab coat, which is necessary for laboratory work;
– a 100-% attendance at the laboratory practices is required;
– written protocols from each laboratory practice are to be handed in;
– microscopic slides shall be handled with care (the fee to be paid for a broken microscopic slide is 10 €);
– students must pass two tests in the course of the semester (weeks 7, and 12), each of maximum 100 points;
  • the point yield should be at least 67 % (each test);
  • students who fail to reach at least 67 % of points in any of the semestral tests will be given the chance to write a reparative test (once each) – until December 11th, 2020;
– according to the number of gained points calculated as average of the two semestral tests, the classification will be given as following:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Points Range</th>

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>0 – 66 points</td>

Note:
Successful passing of the laboratory practices, including the written tests, is a basic requirement to attend the exam in Pharmacognosy (1) in the winter term.

During the winter semester in-person teaching at the faculty we need to maintain a high standard of both hygiene and security measures:
- It is obligatory to wear masks in all indoor areas of the faculty, to apply hand sanitizer at entrances to all premises and to practice social distancing of at least 2 m. Stay home if you feel unwell.
- If you have fever, cough and difficulty in breathing, seek medical care immediately. A student with suspected COVID-19 disease is not allowed to attend in-person teaching. When the state of health allows it, they only attend online classes. A student whose physician finds a suspicion of COVID-19 disease will immediately report this fact to the Study Department of the faculty: tel. +421-2-50117144, -146, faf.study@uniba.ss
